

Resilient Cities 2012 & 2013

Anticipating the future of urban adaptation

Resilient Cities – the annual World Congress on Cities and Adaptation to Climate Change has been hailed as a pioneering event bringing together local governments, scientists and practitioners to discuss the tough issues associated with urban adaptation and resilience to climate change. Launched in 2010, the congress serves as an ongoing platform for information exchange, peer networking and development of adaptation solutions.

Over 1000 participants from around the world attended the Resilient Cities congress in 2010 and 2011, proving that climate change adaptation and urban resilience are concerns of increasing relevance for local governments and for the international community. Building on success of previous editions and continuing the journey towards a more sustainable future, Resilient Cities 2012 and 2013 congresses are on their way!

Don't miss the chance to join our international platform of experts and be at the core of the urban adaptation and resilience debate!

Discover more about Resilient Cities

“Resilient Cities. Cities and Adaptation to Climate Change – Proceedings of the Global Forum 2010” is the first volume of a new series published by Springer Verlag and dedicated to the Resilient Cities annual congress. The book is based on the key contributions emerging from the Resilient Cities 2010 event and addresses adaptation from a number of angles. It paints a broader picture of existing concerns as well as the multitude of solutions being employed around the globe.

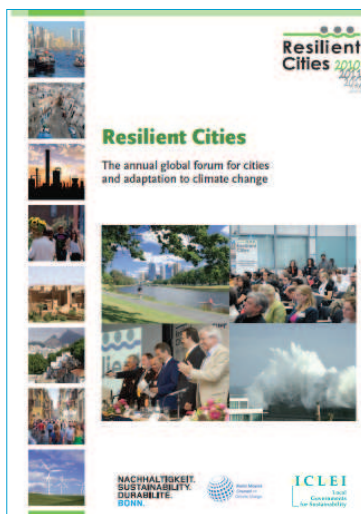

The forthcoming book, combining the inputs of the 2011 congress and offering new examples of ongoing adaptation programs and strategies, will be unveiled at Resilient Cities 2012.

For more information about the series, please contact resilient.cities@iclei.org.

Bigger than in 2010, Resilient Cities 2011 congress offered a number of parallel, plenary and poster sessions, reality check workshops, strategic dialogues and side events. Together with the Mayors Adaptation Forum, the congress focused on responsive financing for adaptation.

The Resilient Cities 2011 congress report provides a detailed overview of the event and summary of the key issues that were addressed. Download it at: www.iclei.org/bonn2011.

The Resilient Cities congress brochure profiles the previous editions of this annual event by highlighting the main themes, facts, accomplishments and the participants’ impressions.
