Program Updates

The Resilient Cities 2015 program is taking shape, with many interesting and interactive sessions! Highlights include:

- A Finance Forum with a special track of sessions exploring how cities, practitioners, and financial institutions are reinventing their approaches to increase the flow of resources for urban resilience building
- A half-day "Urban Food Forum" on new developments in sustainable, resilient city and city-region food systems
- A special focus on resilience data and indicators featuring a session organized by the World Council on City Data
- New program elements such as "Fail Forward!", an innovative workshop on how cities can learn from their mistakes in adaptation planning
